... demonstrate highly efficient budgetary spending

UNCG founded and leads the Carolina Consortium, a group of nearly 200 libraries that save money through joint purchasing. The 40 resources that UNCG gets through consortium deals cost $11.2 million less than if UNCG subscribed to these resources on our own.

Through "demand driven acquisitions" UNCG is able to make 35,000+ books immediately available to our faculty and students, without having to purchase individual titles unless they are heavily used.

UNCG leads the UNC System Ejournal Efficiency initiative. Through coordinated action and data-driven decision making, the system has reduced its cost per article by 25% and UNCG's cost has gone down 35%.

... share UNCG's scholarship with the world

UNCG hosts NC DOCKS, which it shares with 10 other UNC universities. Through NC DOCKS, UNCG makes over 10,000 research articles, dissertations, and other materials available to a global audience. NC DOCKS articles have been accessed over 100,000 times.
